Eponymous

SOPA003 - SOPA - January 12, 2008

"...these are digital campfire songs."

On the new album, »Eponymous«, released on SOPA artist 9 invites the listener to experience sparse, soothing and catchy electronic arrangements with a pop twist - combined with guitar and distinctive sung/spoken vocals.

Behind 9 hides the exile Italian and now "almost-Berliner" Marco Brosolo. With the nose of Ringo Starr, the hair of Laurie Anderson, the voice of Vito Corleone and the hands of Aphex Twin, 9 enchants with unusual and harmonic songs.

A highly personal mix of classic Beatles-like songwriting and delicate electronic programming. The circle that 9 draws within music opens with a harmonious voice orchestration and closes with the touching and tickling warm side of synths.

Live 9 performs with a changing ensemble of drums, bass, guitars, toy-piano, theremin and a variety of other unusual instruments. Visuals complete the live experience.

The release itself of the new 9 album is something you don't see very often. The "regular" version of the cd was released on January 12 (unfortunately delayed enroute from Berlin to the Danish SOPA HQ for a while). But on December 9th the first of nine unique versions of "Eponymous" was released. Or more precisely: auctioned off. At a fixed "But it now" price of 1 euro cent on eBay. The buyer of this unique "low cost art" bought a concert with 9 at the location of his or her choosing as well as a unique live recording of the show on cd with new artwork done by the cover artist Alvis Bittente during the show.

On February 9th and March 9th the second and third "Buy it now" shows were sold on eBay. Now six are left. Where in the world will those purchases take 9? Only time will tell. The first shows already had him go to Italy and France.
